Hibler Selected To Serve As Vice-President

Joe Anna Hibler, Ph.D., who has served as the Dean of the Southwestern Oklahoma State University School of Business since 1982, has been selected to serve as Southwestern's Vice-President for Academic Affairs by the Board of Regents of Oklahoma Colleges. Hibler's appointment makes her the highest-ranking woman in Oklahoma Higher Education.

Hibler joined the faculty at Southwestern in 1965, after teaching business courses in both the Altus Public Schools and Altus Junior College. While at Southwestern, Hibler has served as Chairperson of the Office Administration and Business Education Department in the School of Business, while also serving as Director of the Business Proficiency Certificate Programs. She has taught office administration and business education courses, directed interim workshops and short-term seminars, and periodically taught night and summer classes in secondary education for the Southwestern School of Education.

A graduate of Leedey High School, Hibler received her B.S. in Business Education from Southwestern in 1960, going on to earn her M.S. in Business Education from Oklahoma State University in 1961 and her Ed.D. in Business Education from the University of Oklahoma in 1971.

Hibler has been active in the Southwest Business Administration Association, the National Business Education Association, the Oklahoma Business Association, Delta Pi Epsilon (national honorary graduate fraternity) and Delta Kappa Gamma (international society for women teachers.) In 1984, Hibler received the "Outstanding Regional Leadership" award from the Mountain-Plains Business Education Association. She is also a life member of the Oklahoma Education Association and a member of the Higher Education Alumni Council of Oklahoma.

As an active member of the Weatherford community, Hibler is currently serving as a board member of the Weatherford Industrial Development Trust and is treasurer of the Museum Committee. She recently completed a three-year term as a member of the Weatherford Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Ferguson Supports Pageant

"We have a reputation for having pretty women. Everyone tells me that. Everywhere I go, all over the country, they say Texas and Oklahoma women are so pretty!" Miss Oklahoma, Felicia Ferguson, stated recently when asked how others perceive Oklahoma. She added, "We're not known as a progressive state. People think of us as oil country and cattle country, and they're essentially right."

Before being crowned Miss Oklahoma last summer, Felicia was already a celebrity. Her career began when she was 15 years old. While attending school at Putnam City West, she was chosen to model for the magazine Seventeen. After graduation, she went to college at OSU. There, she entered her first pageant--Miss OSU--and won! Upon completion of obtaining her degree in television journalism and minor in print journalism, Felicia went to work at Oklahoma City's channel 25. She served as an early morning talk show hostess on "Woman to Woman," a 30-minute segment about public affairs.

At the same time, Felicia was doing channel 25's newscasts. And, if this wasn't enough to keep her busy, she was also singing at Doc Severinson's showplace in the evenings. That is where she received her role as a co-host of the nationally-acclaimed weekday series, PM Magazine.

"The president of the company saw me singing and asked me if I'd be interested in applying for a television job. Well, then I told him I had a degree in television, and I was working at a television station. So, that was just icing on the cake. They were looking for personality--not a good journalist," Felicia states, "I was lucky to be in the right place at the right time."

Her stint at PM Magazine lasted six months before she left to return to the Miss Oklahoma pageant.

Noting that she was won either "outstanding talent" or "swimsuit competition" in each of her pageants, Felicia has also earned approximately $35,000 in scholarships. She took both honors at the 1985 Miss Oklahoma pageant, along with the title.

Citing snow skiing, reading, decorating, and looking at antiques as her favorite hobbies, Felicia enjoys her busy career.

"I wouldn't have it any other way because my career is not hard work. It's fun! I get to meet a lot of new people and talk to a lot of people--especially in television. I got to interview a lot of stars. But, one reason I left is because even though people would see me on TV every night, I never got to see anybody--except for the six people that worked on the show," Felicia said, making a point that many of us overlook.

"Learning how to lose gracefully," is how she summed up her greatest achievement. "It's real easy to win and a lot of fun. But, when I went to Miss America, I decided that I needed to take something from there--whether it was the crown, a friend, or a good experience from being there. So I had a real good time. Therefore, I was able to leave there feeling that I had given it all I could've."

Urging all young women to enter pageants, Felicia pointed out that the Miss America system is different than all other pageants.

"It is based on scholarship, and 50% is based on talent. Most of them are just beauty competitions. But, talent is the most important part. The winner doesn't win cash, she wins scholarship money. The purpose," Felicia says, "is to promote education among women. And, I think that's the most valuable thing about the pageant!"

Felicia left Weatherford with a positive word for the new Miss Southwestern, Tracy Tims, and the University.

"She will be a really good representative for the school."

That compliment should be taken highly. After all, it came from a very qualified winner.

Pottery On Display

By GERALD SCOVEL

Four SWOSU graduates, along with their instructor, Montee Hoke, have their pottery currently on display at the Mabee Gerrer Museum. The museum, under the direction of Father John Walch, is located on the campus of St. Gregory's College. Brother Justin is the curator and restorer at the museum, which houses a fine collection of artwork from early Renaissance to the present. It also has works from well-known Oklahoma artists.

The four graduates, "Bo" Lovelace, Paul Sweeney, Janet Massad, and Mark Briscoe, have all studied under SWOSU's assistant professor of art, Montee Hoke. All have outstanding credentials in the area of clay. "Bo" and Janet are currently attending SWOSU. "Bo" is working on his re-certification and Janet is completing her Master's degree in Proficiency Exam

The fifth English Proficiency Examination will be Tuesday, March 25, at 7 p.m. in Room S200. Students should take the exam as soon as possible. Transfer students are also urged strongly to take the exam as quickly as possible so that they have a second opportunity in case they fail the first exam. Students will be required to show their current student ID and should bring pens, pencils, and a dictionary. The exam will consist of a 30-minute objective exam on sentence structure, a 30-minute objective exam on usage, and a 60-minute written essay exam.

Requirements for taking the English Exam:

1. The student first enrolled in a baccalaureate degree program at Southwestern for the fall semester of 1984 or thereafter. Students enrolled prior to this date are not required to take the exam.

2. The student must have completed the six hour English composition requirement (1113 English Composition and 1213 English Composition or their equivalents).

3. The student must wait ONE FULL SEMESTER after taking the last composition course before taking the English proficiency exam.

Pikes Busy On Campus

By KATHERINE WALDON

The month of February has been a busy one for the fraternity of Pi Kappa Alpha. At the beginning of the month the new officers were installed as follows: Jeff Hodge, president; Mike Wells, vice-president; Terry Fihaley, secretary; Shane Boothe, treasurer, and Scott Workman, sergeant-at-arms.

Other activities in the month were the annual "Dreamgirl" banquet on Feb. 14. The Pike of the Year award was also given on this date. At the end of the month, the annual "Arkoma" regional meeting will be held. This is a meeting for all Pike chapters in Oklahoma and Arkansas, and it will be held in Jonesboro, Arkansas.

Students Admonished to Update Measle Immunizations

Since January 15, 1985, measles (Rubeola, "Red") outbreaks occurred at Ohio State University, Boston University in Massachusetts, and Principia College in Illinois. "To prevent such occurrences and to protect the students at Southwestern, we highly recommend that immunizations be updated," stated Lynne Young, University Nurse.

Students should receive immunizations if they have NOT had the disease, if they received the vaccine before they were one year of age, or if they received the vaccine prior to 1968.

There are two free immunization clinics held in this area. In Weatherford, students may go to Custer County Health Department, City Hall (west side of the building, left of the police department), 522 W. Rainey, every second and fourth Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1-4 p.m. In Clinton, students may go to Custer County Health Department, 3030 Custer Ave., every Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. and from 1-4 p.m.

Should you need further information, contact Nurse Young, Ext. 5220, or Dean Janzen, Ext. 5203.

THOUGHTS

By BRAD SHAW

Sometimes I feel like I'm the last living sophomore on this campus with an undecided major. What the heck, I'm in no hurry, besides, I'm on the five year program anyway. Anymore, when someone asks me what my major is I tell them home-ec. that really draws some strange looks.

"Be a man, go to college," everyone told me when I graduated from high school. Well, I've been here for two years now, and I don't feel any different. I guess the feeling of manhood doesn't come upon one until he declares a major.

If variety wasn't the spice of life we'd all be history majors, correct? When I first started school here I figured I'd go into history or accounting, whichever was the funniest. So far I've found no humor at all in the accounting department and I think the instructor is an agent for the KGB.

History, now that's funny. I know I can't help but snicker when I think of the winter Custer spent at Bunker Hill, and how he out-foxed the British by crossing the Hudson river in the middle of Christmas night and surprise attacked them.

Unfortunately, one cannot do much more than teach with a degree in history, and I'm sure beyond a shadow of a doubt that I could not teach. Hey, I've been to high school, I know what they do to teachers there. The first time I found a dead cat in my desk someone would pay with his life, and there goes my teaching career. So why bother getting a teaching certificate if I'll only wind up disfiguring a student, and the courts are really set up in the student's favor these days in such a matter as limb loss, unlike the good ol' days when teachers could rip your face off for no more than picking your nose during class.

At one time I thought about going into psychology (Bob Newhart was kinda my hero), until I learned about Freud. This fellow called Freud has the idea everyone was driven by animal-like sexual urges. I was kind of offended. He can't say everyone's sexual urges are animal like, albeit some individuals' may be more unpredictable than others, that doesn't make them animal-like.

I'm still young so I am not too concerned with choosing a major in haste, perhaps I'll even become a professional student (much to the woe of my parent's bank account). I know, someday I must choose and stick with a major, and being a free-spirited liberal kind of guy, who knows, maybe you'll see me in the home-ec department before long.

Letter to The Editor, Students

Dear Editor and SWOSU Students,

Education... it has always been high on my list of priorities. What about you? Every student that is attending any type of school or that is in any grade should be worried about the education cuts.

It used to be the profession to get into. I know I once wanted to be a teacher but have now shyed away from it because of what's happening to the program. I'm sure teachers are going to have a good incentive to teach if they aren't able to pay their bills or the fact that their classes are so full they can't have a one-on-one student-teacher relationship.

A teacher's average pay in Oklahoma is $18,930. In the surrounding states, like Colorado, the average is $24,456. Do you really think teachers are going to stick around if they can possibly get paid a higher salary somewhere else? If there is one thing I learned in my government class was that the fact that if we don't have a strong educational program in Oklahoma the large businesses are going to stay away. That means Oklahoma, economically will be low and families will choose to live somewhere else. In the long run, it could be detrimental.

Education is what makes the young of today the businessman of tomorrow. We do need it! We don't need it to be placed on the back shelf, behind the other issues. Education is just as important, if not more so. If it is important to you, write your local papers or congressman, don't sit around and let someone else cast their vote for you... it may not be the right one!

Men Letting Their Hair Down

Move over, buzz head, longer locks are here again.

Yes, men have once again, begun to "let their hair down." But unlike the "long hairs" of the 1960's and early 1970's, today's men wear their hair longer because it is more relaxed and basically a matter of fashion rather than a social or political statement.

Still, some people object to longer hair on men because it is not what they are used to; these people should be thankful that at least today's longer haired men keep their hair well groomed and clean.

Men no longer feel the need to fit into the image of the "macho man," individual styles are becoming more apparent every day. Men are also beginning to realize that they don't have to feel compromised by the way they look as a nonverbal expression of their sexual preferences.

There is a disagreement as to the origin of the revitalization of longer hair. Some people credit Italian menswear with the pony tails that first appeared in fashion shows last spring and then made way to the United States, while others credit British music stars who have been wearing longer hair.

Americans have finally started to catch on to this fashion statement, but it has been popular elsewhere in the state and in America for quite some time. This could just be a possible fad, but perhaps some day we will soon be seeing it on almost everybody.

Black History Day; Feb. 27

By ANTHONY BISONG

"Black History Celebration is a celebration of Black people that have made history in the United States of America. The most prominent are: Martin Luther King Jr., George Washington Carver, Booker T. Washington, Harry T. Man 'Black Moses', and Frederick Douglass," says Edward Tyson, spokesperson for the Baptist Student union Black Fellowship. "There will be a memorial tribute to them."

"Also we will raise money to send members of the BSU Black Student Fellowship to Memphis, Tennessee for the 41st National BSU Retreat, March 20-23. Your donations will be highly appreciated," he stated.

The Black History Celebration is on Thursday, Feb. 27 at 7 p.m. in Emmanuel Baptist Church at the corner of College and Kansas St. The Rev. A. Glenn Woodberry of Mt. Olive Baptist Church Oklahoma City will be the guest speaker.

Choirs from Oklahoma Christian Coalition Oklahoma City, Bethany Baptist Church, Clinton, and The Missionaries from BSU will entertain.

"This celebration is not just for Blacks but for everybody to come and share in an evening of religious experience. To go back into history and reflect how far we have gone," Tyson said.

Home Ec's Summer Schedule

The Southwestern Oklahoma State University Department of Home Economics has announced its class schedule for the Summer 1986 Semester.

The first seminar offered, from May 19-23, will be BLENDED FAMILIES. There will be four seminars following this: HOUSING METHODS AND MATERIALS (June 2-6); LEAN CUISINE (June 9-13); JAPANESE COOKERY (June 23-27), and ADOLESCENT/ATHLETIC NUTRITION (July 7-11).

The department will also offer two regular summer courses, FAMILY and NUTRITION, during the summer session, May 29-July 25.

The pre-enrollment period for the regular summer courses is March 24-April 25. Those wishing to enroll in the seminars may do so at this time, as well as on the first day of class. The department recommends that students desiring these courses enroll as soon as possible.

SW Business Staff Recently Expanded

The Small Business Development Center's staff has been expanded at Southwestern Oklahoma State University. The Center provides free counseling, training, and technical assistance to current and prospective business owners of Beckham, Caddo, Comanche, Cotton, Custer, Grady, Greer, Harmon, Jackson, Jefferson, Kiowa, Roger Mills, Stephens, Tillman, and Washita counties. The SBDC is a joint effort of Southwestern Oklahoma State University and the Small Business Administration. The director of the Weatherford-based center is Dr. Clint Roush, and the field representative is Mr. Alan Breslow.

The Small Business Development Center provides management assistance to small businesses who need help with selected managerial problems such as getting started in business, financial analysis, cash flow planning, marketing, accounting, investment feasibility, small business computers, and other identified management areas. The SBDC also offers training seminars covering selected business management topics and provides a link to major data banks in the United States.

The Small Business Development Center office is located in Room 219 of the Student Center Building on the SWOSU campus in Weatherford. The office will be open to serve the business community on Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Small business owners may request SBDC services or additional information by visiting the office, calling 405-772-6611, Ext. 3050, or writing to the SBDC at 100 Campus Drive, Weatherford, OK 73096.

Williams Receives Award; Epperson Promoted

Master Sergeant Clarence Williams, of the Southwestern Oklahoma State University Military Science Department, was presented with the Army Meritorious Service Medal in a ceremony held recently in the Southwestern ROTC Building. Williams, who has been at Southwestern since December of 1985, received the honor for his service during his last assignment with the 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault) at Fort Campbell, Kentucky.

Williams is presented the award by Lieutenant Colonel Bruce Smith, head of the Southwestern Military Science Department.

Major Dale Epperson, of the Southwestern Oklahoma State University Department of Military Science, is promoted to his present rank by his wife, Joyce, and Lieutenant Colonel Bruce Smith, also of the Department, in ceremonies held in the Southwestern ROTC Building. Epperson, who arrived on Southwestern's campus last February, has been selected to attend the Army Command and General Staff College in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

upon completion of his assignment at Southwestern.

The Epperson's daughter, Amy, also assisted in the promotion.

Medical Record Program Applications Accepted

The Medical Record Administration Program at SWOSU has announced that applications are currently being accepted for admission into the 1986-87 Professional Junior Class beginning the fall of 1986.

This will be the 12th group of students to enter the professional program at SWOSU since the program was developed as a four-year campus-based program in 1975. It was originally established as a 3 + 1 program in 1967 with a three-year curriculum at SWOSU followed by a one-year intensive "internship" at Hillcrest Medical Center in Tulsa.

Graduates from the program have found employment in a variety of health care settings. Designed primarily to train students to become Directors of Medical Record Departments in hospitals and coordinate the activities of anywhere from 1-75 or more employees, the graduate can also find opportunities in many other areas. According to Marion Prichard, RRA, Director of the Program, "A Medical Record Administrator is not limited to a certain professional role as in some careers. If a graduate is not interested in becoming a Director, Assistant Director, or Supervisor in a Medical Record Department, they can go into consulting, teaching, or sales. Certain 'specialty' areas are available such as Utilization Review, Quality Assurance, or DRG's. In addition, there are opportunities as coordinators for review agencies or insurance companies; information specialists for state health departments, planning agencies, and other state and federal organizations, as well as other health-related areas."

The program is nationally accredited by the Committee on Allied Health Education and Accreditation of the American Medical Association in collaboration with the American Medical Record Association. Students are provided with a diverse background in business, management, medical science, law, and specific medical documentation requirements and practices to allow them to work with both administration and physician staffs of Health Care Facilities.

Demand for qualified professionals are high. A new graduate can expect a beginning salary of $18,000 to $24,000 depending on job responsibility. Anyone interested in obtaining more information should contact Marion Prichard, RRA, Director of the Program, or Faye Henson, RRA, Assistant Director. Their office is located in Room 104 of the Science Building. Application deadline date for the 1986-87 professional class is February 28, 1986, with interviews being held on March 19 and 21.

Aspirin Shouldn't Be Taken with Reyes Syndrome

By MARYLYN MILLER

"Due to the incidence of Reyes Syndrome in connection with viral infections such as flu and chicken pox, the Center for Disease Control has suggested that aspirin NOT be taken concurrently with either ailment." This is advice from university nurse Lynn Young concerning the current flu season.

"Tylenol tablets may be taken for headache and general body aches," she continued. "The suspicion that aspirin might make the condition worse is enough to avoid taking it. There is no positive proof at this time, but aspirin really should be avoided."

If students have any medical problems at all, be it the flu or another ailment, Nurse Young is available in her office Monday-Friday, 8-5. Her phone extension is 5220. If Nurse Young cannot be reached, Dr. Fred Janzen, Dean of Student Personnel Services, can be contacted at Ext. 5203. Students can also contact an ambulance service at 772-5958.

Class absences due to illness are verified by the nurse only in instances where Nurse Young has been involved in the treatment or referral of student illnesses.

Accidents which happen on campus in any college-connected class must be reported by report forms to the health department by the person in charge of the class. Forms may be obtained from the health department. Health insurance is available from Nurse Young and is to be taken care of by each individual.

According to Nurse Young, each student is required to have a physical examination on file, and students will not be officially enrolled until their health record file is complete.

The university will not assume responsibility for injuries from intramural competition.

Nurse Young stressed that because of continued outbreaks of measles on campuses, students who have not had the disease or vaccination are encouraged to see their physician for immunization.

Moody; SWOSU Golfer Seems To Stand Out

Of the 15 members of the SWOSU golf team, one individual stands out from the rest. Weatherford senior, Rod Moody, 27, is the only current team member to capture a State Title. He holds the 1984 Oklahoma State Mid-Amateur Crown, an event for men over the age of 25.

"Those who have played golf probably realize the game is not that easy. Most can't begin to visualize how difficult it is to play the game under pressure," Rod said. "Like a continuous roller-coaster, scores and the game seem to go up and down. Some days the game seems like second nature, while others can discourage a person from ever playing again." Rod has accomplished what most golfers live to achieve, to play well in an important tournament and win.

Like most good golfers, Rod started playing at a young age. He explained, "I started playing golf with friends when I was in the sixth grade. My parents are from the Elk City area. My father worked for the Civil Service before retirement. He was transferred to the Altus area when I was younger, and that is where I learned how to play. I was crazy about golf and loved the game.

Like most people with golf fever, I lived on the golf course."

After graduating from Altus High School, Rod pursued golf on a collegiate level. "I played my freshman year for Jerry Hrniciar at Cameron. I was playing basketball and golf for them. While my grades were not that great, the financial pressures of school were also eating at me constantly. So, I dropped out of school and worked for a supermarket chain after my first year. This was an important time in my life. While I wanted to continue playing, I also needed to make some money. I sacrificed the game to take care of more immediate needs.

"My job forced me to move away from the Lawton area. I ended up in Weatherford, thinking I might not play competitively again. I tossed the thought around of getting finances squared away so I could get back into school."

Rod finally achieved what seemed like the impossible. He was enrolled in school again, attending Southwestern. Ready to play golf, he had the burning desire to tear up a few golf courses. "That is the way a person gets when he is away from the game for any length of time," he said.

"During the summer in 1984 I played in the Oklahoma State Mid-Amateur tournament held at the Trails Golf Course in Norman. After playing some of the best golf of my life, I took the Mid-Am title. The event qualified me to represent the state in the U.S. Mid-Am tourney which was held at the Atlanta Athletic Club."

Since that time Moody has run up quite an impressive track record at Southwestern. During his sophomore year he won the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference tournament and the Southwestern Invitational, as well as achieving numerous top three finishes. He collected enough points to be named to the All-Conference and All-District first teams.

In his junior year he continued to dominate in the OIC. He won the Oklahoma Intercollegiate tourney at Lawton Country Club and the East Central State Invitational. He also achieved several top three finishes, giving him enough points to again be named to the All-Conference and All-District teams for 1985.

Rod works hard at managing his game and hopes to continue playing the kind of golf he has played. He is hoping for a repeat performance in 1986.

BSU Student Fellowship Celebrates Black History

By JIM MORRISON

The Black Student Fellowship of the BSU is sponsoring a Black History Celebration, Thursday, February 27. This is a campus and community wide effort to share in the progress and faith of the black community. It is largely a worship experience of praise and celebration. The theme of the program is, "The Truth Shall Make You Free." The service will be held in Emmanuel Baptist church at 7 p.m.

Several outstanding guests will be coming to share in this experience.

The Oklahoma Christian Coalition, a group of 30 young people from the Oklahoma City area will be presenting a concert. Also singing will be the Bethany Baptist Church Mass choir from Clinton; The Missionaires, a singing group from the Baptist Student Union, and Cheryl Fox, a SWOSU student from Anadarko.

Sherry Pearson, special education teacher in the Clinton Public Schools will be bringing a memorial tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King.

Bringing the major address will be Rev. A. Glenn Woodberry, pastor of the Greater Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Oklahoma City. The public is invited to attend. For more information contact: Jim Morrison, BSU, 772-2377.

March 7-8; CU "Aggie Club" Rodeo

March 7 and 8 are the dates for the 17th annual Cameron University "Aggie Club" Rodeo. The show will be held at the Great Plains Coliseum on the Comanche County fairgrounds in Lawton. Performances will begin at 8 p.m. both nights.

There are seven major events in the competition. Events include:

barrel racing, bull riding, bare-back bronc riding, team roping, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, and bull dogging. Entries for these events will be accepted March 4 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The number to call is (405) 357-1668. Anyone can enter.

Admission is $5 for adults while children 12 and under are free. For additional information contact the Cameron University Agriculture Department at (405) 248-2200, Ext. 275.

Sports Talk

Ah yes, time for the ol' sports column. Already a family favorite. No doubt you and your family gather around the fire to read the weekly sports column. Yes, we even send it to our boys overseas. Well, I had a topic this week. But, I waited too long to get a lot of the details. Anyway I will share what I know. Dave Eidem is looking for some guys to get together a water skiing team. The purpose is to enter some of the summer tournaments. I don't know exactly what, or when or where, but I will in the next issue. I might even include a picture if there are skeptics.

For a brief moment let's talk college basketball. Did anyone see the Duke-OU game? OU looked so pitiful until the end, when they looked tough. Now I'm a big OU fan--but the guys have got to start playing defense. They may have the most talent in the nation, but a fast-break offense on both ends of the court won't work. Right now I don't think OU is final-four material. I'm looking at Duke, Georgia Tech, North Carolina, and Syracuse. Possibly Virginia or Kansas as dark horses.

Ok, I'm done being Dick Vitale. The varsity tennis and track held their first meetings last week. Both teams should do well this year.

Something to look forward to: next issue, along with water skiing information I'm going to have a special segment on snow skiing. This is key because so many people are going skiing over spring break, and the column can sort of act like a bible to those fortunate ones. This is a good idea, of course it wasn't mine; but this is just more proof that the journalism department has the interest of every student at heart.

Well, to keep from rambling, I will end the column here, but be ready for a new up-to-date "Sports Talk" next week when I will be prepared and informative--I still have my cub scout roots you know.

OIC Playoffs Here

By DEAN RADER

What a good game it was Saturday night. The Bulldogs and Northeastern exchanged leads all night until the 'Dogs rallied to claim the 70-59 victory. The 'Dogs were up three points with about 8:30 left in the game when two quick seals by Southwestern guards led to two quick buckets which in turn led to a major rally on Southwestern's part. Between the 'Dogs fast breaks and Senior, Nathan Mitchell's long-range jumpers, the 'Dogs steadily widened the gap. The other Senior, Steve Stokes, was the instigator on defense. The Bulldogs played tough defense and worked together for the victory.

Mitchell led the 'Dogs in scoring with 21 points, and Stokes aided with 20. Jeffery Hudson scored eight points, Bryan Baca had six, Russell Arms scored four, and Ricky Spede added two.

This victory gives the Bulldogs the luxury of playing at home for the first round of the OIC playoffs. Their first game will be tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. against either Central State or East Central. Tickets will go on sale at the usual locations.

OETA Holds Courses

Southwestern Oklahoma State University has been offering telecourses during this semester. These courses are being offered from the Oklahoma Education Television Authority (OETA) Channel 13, Oklahoma City, and Channel 12, Cheyenne.

"I don't feel that these courses will replace college," was the response received from Dr. Mel Fiegel in an interview earlier this week. Dr. Fiegel is working with the course "History 1053--American History Since 1877." The books used for this course include "America's Second Century" and "We Americans," as well as others.

Dr. Fiegel stated that the courses are not actually taught by the instructors at SWOSU. "The course exams are administered by instructors and homework must be precise in order that one might hope to satisfactorily complete the course taken."

Two instructors, not from SWOSU, teaching the courses are Studge Turkel and John Kenneth Galbraith. Dr. Fiegel said that both men are dynamic instructors.

Instructions On Methods

The Western Oklahoma Literacy Council will conduct a tutoring workshop for those wishing to learn the Laubach method of teaching basic reading and writing skills to adults. This is a 10-hour workshop.

The workshop will be held at SWOSU in the Education Building Reading Lab (Basement). Workshop dates are Friday, March 21, 1986 from 6:30-9:30 p.m., and Saturday, March 22, 1986 from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

There are no charges for instruction. A $12 fee will be charged to cover cost of materials.

Sig Taus Clean Means Park

By BRAD SHAW

The Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity held their first community project last Thursday, Feb. 20, by picking up trash at Means Park. This was the first of three community projects per semester the fraternity plans to hold.

President of the Sig Taus, Greg Odell, a senior, said, "The image of social fraternities in the past has been based mainly upon partying, which is fine, but the Sig Taus wish to improve upon this image. By having community projects we hope to show the Southwestern University and the Weatherford community we're here for more than just the parties and willing to do our part in keeping this college and community a place to be proud of."

The idea of holding community projects was just instigated at the beginning of the semester by the Sig Taus. Also, the Sigs Taus have upped their mandatory G.P.A. from a 2.0 to 2.5. Hoping to instill in its members and pledges grades first. Tentatively on the Sig Taus next community project is to wash store front windows for local merchants.

Lady Dawgs Beat Lady Blues

The Southwestern Lady Bulldogs delighted the fans Saturday night by defeating Northeastern 76-49. The Lady Blues jumped out to an early 11-0 lead, and never looked back. Nine of the 11 points were attributed to Lisa Freeman. Freeman stepped in and filled Sandra Smith's shoes inside. Smith is still out with a knee injury.

Northeastern's big gun Sheila Buzzard was certainly on Saturday hitting 28 of the team's 49 points. Buzzard led all players in scoring. Leading for the Lady Bulldogs were Shelly Brown and Donna Douglas. Brown and Douglas both had 20 points for the Dogs. Freeman had 15 points, Stroud added six, Renvy Evans had five, Dena Phelps three, Dawn Brooks two, Lisa Segard two, and Terri Prim scored three.

The victory was especially nice for Southwestern, seeing that Northeastern beat them earlier this year 57-55 in Talequah. The Lady Bulldogs combined good shooting with solid defense, and strong rebounding for a virtuously perfect game.

The Lady Bulldogs begin their quest for a fourth national championship Monday night against Oklahoma Baptist University. The results were not in at presstime.

Horse sense is the result of stable thinking.
